DOCTORAL PROGRAMME IN CULTURAL AND DIFFERENTIAL PSYCHOLOGY

DIFFERENTIAL PSYCHOLOGY: PERSONALITY, INDIVIDUAL DIFFERENCES, AND INDIVIDUALITY SYLLABUS

Lecturer: PROF. IRINA ZINOVIEVA

Summary

The course of Personality, Individual Differences, and Individuality starts with a critical analysis of major approaches to individual differences in personality and intelligence followed by an introduction and conceptualization of individuality. The second part focuses on the biological, social, and cultural framework of individuality with factors like heredity and environment, situation, culture and historic context. Other key topics in this part are differences among large societal groups such as social classes and gender groups. The implication of the global world and the information age for human self, agency, and resulting forms of individual capital are treated in the third part. The course concludes with key methodological issues for differential psychology - case studies, twin studies, combination of quantitative and qualitative methods, longitudinal studies as well as the new opportunities opened by the neural networks modelling and data analysis proposed by Stephen Grossberg.
